

Giordano Thailand Volunteer Team Participate in Prasingh Temple Grounds Cleaning Day

December 16, 2020, Thailand

A team of volunteers from Giordano Thailand converged in the northern city of Chiangmai to take part in a cleaning day for the local Prasingh temple.

The frequent travel between Thailand and Myanmar via the border passages in Chiangmai have led to an upsurge in Covid-19 cases, adversely affecting the local community and visitor numbers to the local temples.

“The government has implemented a host of detection and quarantine procedures in the area, and various agencies have stepped up health and safety measures throughout the province, but our Giordano team members still wanted to do their part to contribute to the local community”, said Ms Tammy Toh, General Manager of Giordano Thailand.

She continued, “These campaigns are part of both our local and global corporate culture. We want to do our part to make a genuine difference, especially in our community”.

The 25-strong team comprising the entire Chiangmai frontline staff and the area supervisor of the Northern Region of Thailand cleaned lavatories and the temple grounds of Prasingh Temple, keeping them safe for both tourists and the resident monks.
